Secure DIN
for fire protection of documents

What will happen with the company's most vital documents if there is a fire? With Secure DIN they will be well protected from both heat and flames.

A lot of information like contracts, insurance documents and archives are of vital importance for every company. The Secure DIN helps to protect this important information during a fire and also offers effective protection against burglary.

Models

Secure DIN is an archive cabinet range available in four models, all designed to protect your documents with maximum capacity. The two larger models are available as double door versions.

Construction

Secure DIN has a double wall construction, insulated with fire-resistant material. It is a professional archive cabinet with a manipulation-proof locking system. The traditional 3-way moving bolt-work (three horizontal and two vertical bolts) contributes to the overall security of the cabinet. Because of its limited weight, the Secure DIN can easily be placed in any user environment.

Locking

The cabinets are equipped as standard with a high security Mauer key lock (Class A, EN 1300 / ECB•S approved) supplied with two keys.

Additional features

As standard the cabinets are configured with removable shelves, and for optimal utilisation of space, additional fittings are available. Lockable compartments, pull-out frames for files or extra shelves are options to customise your archive cabinet. All models are prepared for floor anchoring, to increase the protection of your documents.
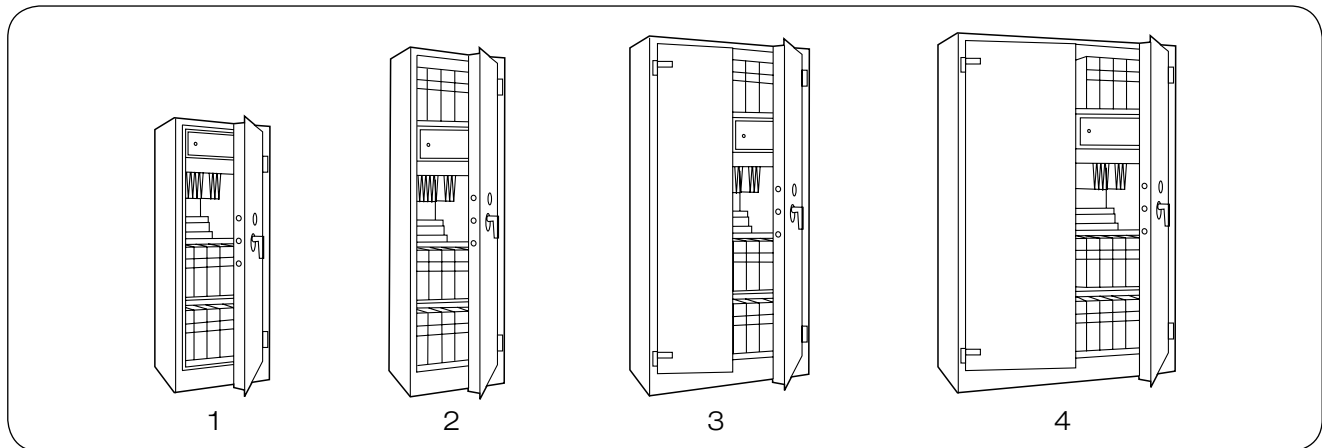

Design

The Secure DIN cabinets will complement any office environment in colour, design and finish. They have a sophisticated modern look and are supplied in a two-tone colour powder coated finish of light and dark grey.
